

DEMONSTRATION IN FAVOR OF AINAHAU

Nearly one hundred persons, one-third of whom were women, including many of the most prominent public figures in Honolulu appeared before the lands committee of the house of representatives yesterday afternoon and for two hours discussed the proposal to accept the gift of the late Governor A. S. Cleghorn, taking over beautiful Ainauau and converting it into a public property to become known as Kaulani Park, in memory of Mr. Cleghorn's daughter.

During the two hours about fifteen persons addressed the committee; two were women, Mrs. F. J. Lowrey, representing the Outdoor Circle of the Kiloahua Art League, and Mrs. Emma M. Nakulua, both urging the acceptance of the gift. Only two voices were heard in opposition to Senator Iauka's bill which would provide for receiving Ainauau under the terms of the Cleghorn will; these were Judge A. S. Humphreys and Allan Herbert.

The first argued the government should not surrender its policing power to a dead testator, abiding by the terms of the will which would compel the closing of the park's gates during the hours of darkness. He also said the park would be the pleasure ground of the rich alone; added that the rights of the heirs should receive consideration and that no man should have the right to take away from his children their just share of his property. He admitted, however, that if the territory should take over Ainauau, compliance with the policing requirement clause of the will would be easy. The territory could pass a law making it a misdemeanor for anyone to enter the place after sunset.

Allan Herbert's principal point against the creation of a public park from the Ainauau grounds was that because of the dense vegetation and the lowness of its lands it would be miasmatic and unhealthy as a pleasure resort.

Supervisors Leslie Petrie and Major Wolter, while urging the acceptance of Ainauau, declared that inasmuch as the expense of its maintenance must be borne by the City and County of Honolulu, its control should be placed in the hands of the supervisors; otherwise it might share the ignominious fate of Kapiolani Park. They urged also that the debt of about $7500 still outstanding against Ainauau should be borne by the territory, relieving the heirs of the burden in case the latter derive no benefit from the property.

Briefly, the great preponderance of sentiment favored the gift; the speakers explained how the cost of upkeep need not be burdensome; how, if desirable Kaulani Park might be made one of the most attractive, picturesque spots in the world and how its historical interest would equal its beauty.

Chief Justice A. G. M. Robertson, one of the trustees of the Cleghorn estate, declined to speak for or against the acceptance of Ainauau. He outlined briefly the situation, discussing the practical phase, but said the terms of the will would not make Ainauau, as a public property, an onerous property. All the others spoke eloquently and with convincing power. Among the others who addressed Chairman Huddy and his conferees of the committee were Park Commissioner F. A. Schaefer, L. A. Thurston, Mayor Joseph Fern, W. O. Smith, Prof. W. A. Bryan and W. R. Castle.

Among those present in the audience, besides the speakers, were Mrs. S. B. Dole, Mrs. W. R. Castle, Mrs. Henry Waterhouse, Judge C. F. Clemens, W. D. Withington, G. W. Smith, Supervisor John Markham, C. D. Pringle, C. McChesney, Mrs. O. T. Gulick, Mrs. Galt and Mrs. I. M. Cox.

DEFICIENCY BILL PROMISES PILIKIA

The senate has "boosted" the deficiency bill $47,000 above the figures set by the house, and the latter yesterday declined to concur in the amendments to the measure, formally known as H. B. 54. The measure came back from the senate Monday so badly mutilated that Chairman Watkins of the house finance committee, said he scarcely recognized it.

At that time he moved to defer consideration of the senate amendments. This was done and his committee went over the suggested alterations, item by item. Imbued as they are with the idea of "retrenchment," that is being thrown at them from every side the last few weeks, the finance committee members of the house openly had announced that they were radically opposed to the amended deficiency bill. As altered, it calls for a total of $132,000, to be expended on the judiciary building, several wharves, the Archives and Library of Hawaii and several other items.

Watkins yesterday moved that the house decline to concur in the senate amendments. His motion was adopted by an unanimous show of hands, and the speaker appointed Representative Watkins, George P. Cooke and Kaaua as house managers, to confer with a like body from the senate on the measure.

The bill now carries: Repair and partial remodeling of the judiciary building, $15,000; moving and temporary accommodations incidental to said work, $9000; furnishing said building, $40,000; Mahukona wharf and wharf shed, $15,000; Honouliuli wharf shed, $500; Hanalei wharf shed, $500; Koloa wharf and wharf shed, $10,000; Kawaikapa wharf, $1500; buildings and improvements, girls' industrial school, $6000; shelter, $2500; improvement of stairway and index file, Archives building, $2500; improvement of grounds, Library of Hawaii, $3000; workshop, storehouse, garage, for health building, Hilo, $2000; tax office, Hilo, $3000; concrete jail and jailer's house, leper settlement, $5000. Total, $132,000.

WIFE DESERTERS MAY NOW BE SENT TO JAIL

Imprisonment for not more than a year may now be inflicted on wife deserters, a new statute to that effect, enacted by the legislature, having been signed by the governor. It makes wife desertion a misdemeanor and punishable as such, providing the specific penalty.

'THIRD HOUSE' OF SENATE GIVES TO FUND

From the "third house" of the senate yesterday there came to the Star-Bulletin $43.50 for the Flood Relief Fund. The money was turned over to President E. A. Knudsen of the senate and yesterday President Knudsen turned it over to this paper for the fund.

The Relief Fund subscriptions are now closing and Chairman Westervelt of the committee announces that while the committee will accept and acknowledge all now on the way, the list will not be held open indefinitely and the officers are anxious to close the books so that a final accounting can be made and published.

The letter from the senate "third house," which consists of officers and employees of the senate, is as follows:

Honolulu, T. H., April 15, 1913.
Hon. Eric A. Knudsen, President of the Senate.

Dear Sir:—On behalf of the officers of your honorable assembly and employees of your standing and select committees, permit me to hand you herewith the sum of $43.50 as our contribution for the relief of the flood sufferers of Ohio and Indiana.

It is especially a great favor to us, your employees, to be able to, in a small way, share with those who now are most in need of help what you and your honorable associates have so generously allowed us for our services.

It is the wish of the contributors that you kindly forward this money to such authorities or committees having the relief work to charge.

The contributors are: John H. Wise, clerk of the senate; Eugene K. Aiu, assistant clerk; Rev. J. A. Akina, chaplain; S. W. Abr. Kaleloha, sergeant-at-arms; John A. Noble, messenger; W. K. Apaukehu, janitor; J. W. Brining, clerk committee on ways and means; M. S. Depone, clerk committee on public lands and internal improvements; H. L. Kinslea, clerk committee on education; C. A. SENATE SAYS HOUSE PASSES TWO LIKE BILLS

The senate is peeved.

"I move that Senator Judd's verbal report be written out and sent to the house," said Senator Metzger.

Though the senate didn't agree to this, it is peeved none-the-less. And the reason is that the lower body passed two bills almost identically alike, one of which has been signed by the governor and is now law. The second passed third reading in the house last week and came before the judiciary committee of the senate.

"The bill seeks to remedy the same evil as does the former one, which is now law. Their wording is a little different but in substance they are the same," said Senator Judd, who spent a good many minutes last night trailing down the other bill.

Though Senator Metzger's motion was not adopted, word is going to be passed to the house for it to properly bill its bills, and that one bill is ordinarily sufficient to cure one evil.

PUBLIC MEETING ON 'RED-LIGHT' MEASURE

Whether the public wishes a crusade to be commenced against the so-called "red-light" district may be learned this evening before the meeting called by Senator Chillingworth, chairman of the health committee of the senate, is over.

The meeting is for the open consideration of the measure written by the governor and offered to the senate by Senator Baker. The measure declares houses of prostitution to be nuisances, and provides a drastic means of doing away with the districts or "red plague," so called by David Starr Jordan.

The meeting will be called at 7:30 this evening in the chamber of the senate.

There is nothing new to say, but one may discover the thousandth and second way to express a thought.

OPIUM CASES TO SAN FRANCISCO KEEP COURT BUSY

Opium cases were in the predominance in the U. S. district court yesterday, when there was held a general calling of the calendar of criminal cases. The trial of Mrs. M. S. Taylor, the former stewardess of the Mongolia, who was brought back to Honolulu from San Francisco under guard for alleged smuggling of opium, was set up on motion of attorney for May 12. Another alleged smuggler whose case was brought up is Samuel D. Hausman, the aged Seattle merchant, arrested at the Young Hotel several months ago when a number of opium tins were detected in his trunk. Hausman's lawyer, George A. Davis, has promised a warm fight when the time comes to present the case of his client. Hausman brought the "hop" from San Francisco to Honolulu, and it is understood that Davis will defend him upon the ground that it is not possible to smuggle from a state of the United States to a territory.

Other cases were set for trial in the following order:
Akioa Kichita, bigamy, April 28. To follow: Pow Sin, opium; Gordon Roberts, white slave act; Kichil Sakuma, adultery; Samuel Kellinoh, adultery; Felicia Santiago, bigamy; Louis Martin, adultery; Ah Sing, opium; Kaimi, opium; Lee Wah Chung, opium. The following cases to be tried upon the return of U. S. District-attorney Breckons: Joseph Barker, opium; Martha Kawebe, adultery; Chas. Kaina, opium; Fred K. Kemaka, opium; Samuel D. Hausman, opium. The following cases are at the foot of the calendar: Fred Williams, postal fraud; W. Schwartz, assault; Lee Kai Fai, postal fraud; Ah Ko, fornication; Fong Hing, opium; Geo. J. Stumpf, fornication; Solomon Haumea, incest. (The last seven named not being in custody.) Mrs. M. S. Taylor, opium, set for May 12.

HELPS IN FIGHT

Julius Unger, of M. A. Gunst Company, has quickly reaped rewards for some work done for the sugar campaign. Mr. Unger wrote to the Gunst firm in San Francisco to enlist business interests there in the battle and in reply has received a letter from M. H. Esberg, vice-president of the Gunst company and a director of the San Francisco Chamber of Commerce, enclosing the following:

(Copy of telegram)
San Francisco, April 4, 1913.
President Woodrow Wilson,
Washington, D. C.

We again desire to repeat our objections to the abolition or radical reduction of the tariff on sugar. Such action would severely cripple, if it did not annihilate the beet sugar industries and the Hawaiian sugar plantations.

If the present price of raw sugar, namely, $3.45 per hundred pounds, were reduced by the amount of the present tariff on Cuban sugar, the price of sugar would fall far below the cost of production marketing by both the Hawaiian plantations and the beet sugar industries.

In California alone there is an investment of nineteen millions in the beet sugar industries, and the investment in the Hawaiian sugar plantations is conservatively eighty-five millions. Sugar plantations constitute the principal industry of the Hawaiian islands and are practically the sole basis of its prosperity. These plantations, like the beet sugar industry, would be practically destroyed by an abolition of the tariff on sugar. The disproportion between the very small benefits to the ultimate consumer, which might come from putting sugar on the free list, as compared to the widespread injury which would be done to the large numbers of people in the United States and the Hawaiian islands, whose communities and prosperity are dependent on the sugar industry, makes the proposed abolition of the duty on sugar appear grossly inequitable to us.

GAY AND SORDID IN JUVENILE COURT

Refusing to return to the home of her parents, a pretty eighteen-year-old Hawaiian girl appeared before the juvenile court yesterday and presented to Judge Whitney one of the most difficult problems that has ever come within his honor's jurisdiction. The girl, who was found Monday night drinking wine in a local resort, declared that she preferred having what she termed a "good time" to living with her family. She mocked at the judge's efforts to make her change her ideas, and said that she was of age and that the court had no authority to tell her what to do. In spite of all the authorities could do she went her way determined to continue as she has set out.

A more cheerful case on the juvenile court calendar was that of a bright, alert little Hawaiian boy about twelve years of age who is looking for someone to adopt him. The little chap presented a most favorable record from the Mollili school and explained that his mother and father are dead and that his grandmother is now too old to take care of him. Judge Whitney announced that any persons caring to adopt the fine little chap should make their request through his court.
